Guests And Natives Bind Ancestral Ties

(A Townsman News Feature)
The British came, they saw and this time they conquered every Yankee who had any part in welcoming to Andover the 100 on tour in celebration of the centenary of the Southern Newspapers Ltd.

They arrived Friday bearing gifts from the Mayor of Andover, England (a painting of an Andover street scene and an album of photographs), and left foot weary after an introduction to folk dancing, U. S. style.

They were ecstatic over the grandeur of New England's autumn leaf display, and dejected that a tight 16-day schedule would not permit an extension of their time in the single small community on their itinerary.

They were surprised to see that the fine art of bagpiping was so professionally practiced on this side of the Atlantic as it is by the Clan McPherson band, and delighted to discover that Americans

It isn't logical to say, "Prescriptions cost more than they used to." Most of today's drugs weren't available—at any price—ten or twenty years ago. In fact, over three quarters of all prescriptions written today, couldn't have been filled as recently as ten years ago!

Boards Sit Fence On School Issue

Town Meeting Monday Night

The special Town Meeting to consider proposals of the School Building Committee for a new high school will be held Monday at 8 p.m. in Memorial Auditorium, Andover Junior High School.

To be voted: one article asking the town to appropriate $4.4 million for the construction and equipping of the school. This sum increases if the town votes an auditorium larger than 1,000 or a swimming pool, both carried as separate and optional articles.

Pertinent facts: The impact of the school, if voted as proposed, will be 60 cents per million dollars of the bonded 20-year debt.

At an interest rate of roughly three percent, it would cost the

A $10 tax hike by 1970. This is the prediction of the Long Range Capital Expenditures Committee in a report to the Board of Selectmen.

A lay study of technical questions, it tops the pile of materials to be considered by the Selectmen in drawing up an overall master plan for the town's future.

Chairman Philip K. Allen said this week that such a plan is under consideration. Presumably the board will draw upon suggestions in the recent study completed by the New England Fire Rating Association, the report of the Charter

1964 CASH Refunds Already $\frac{3}{4}$ Earned

October is more than a brisk and colorful month. For CO-OP shoppers it marks another milestone in the economical purchase of food.

Our shoppers know from experience that CO-OP prices are competitive. They also know that the CO-OP has, in the past, made substantial CASH REFUNDS on every item purchased in our store.

No one knows what the refund for the year 1964 will be, but one thing we do know. Since the year is already three-quarters over, the total 1964 refunds are already three-quarters earned.

With less than three months to go to the end of the year, we can predict that the year 1964 looks very promising. A good fourth quarter could make it the best year the Andover CO-OP has ever had.

You can help contribute to that success by shopping in the only store in this vicinity which is owned by the shoppers. The time is now.

Race Questions Lecture Topic

An open lecture on the Negro, our community and how we are involved will be held at 8 p.m. Oct. 22 at Memorial Hall Library under sponsorship of the Andover Citizens For Equal Opportunity.

Speaking will be Rev. Donald J. Clark, dean-director of the Rolling Ridge Conference Center and chairman of the Social Action Committee of the Greater Lawrence Council of Churches.

Rev. Clark has shown his concern for civil rights issues by demonstrating, in St. Augustine, Fla. and in Mississippi. He also concerns himself with civil rights problems locally and in Boston. The Methodist minister is a native of Williamstown, Mass., a graduate of Williams College and Union Theological Seminary, New York City.

At this same session the committee will elect officers, and hear sub-committee reports, according to Leonard Kent, temporary chairman.

Rare Book Lists Many Odd Health Cure-Alls

(Review of an Antique Book)
Few contemporary families would sigh for the "good old days" if they perused a book found recently among inherited volumes by a Townsman contributor. Published in 1856, its title is self-explanatory: "Arts Revealed and Universal Guide"; containing many rare and invaluable Recipes and Directions for the Use of Families from the best authorities. In this compendium are instructions for making such necessities as Chinese cement for mending crockery; White Spruce Beer for the quenching of thirst; a varnish to keep sunlight from passing through window glass; dyes of all hues; and "an infallible cure for cancer!"

It must have been a handy volume for the housewife of a century ago, especially one desperate for a method of renewing her veil, or a way to clean a foul cask. Also detailed, directions for keeping hair from "falling off" and a formula for an eyelash blackener — elderberry juice, burnt cork and cloves burnt at the candle. Most of the book's invaluable recipes are medical potions; Most of the "Invaluable Recipes" are concerned with health problems; indeed a woman who owned this book probably was able to raise a family without ever calling a doctor, she would collect bark from the roots of butternut trees for "costiveness", sweet fern for rheumatism and St. Anthony's fire, hops for cancer, peppermint for hysteresis and "glett", milkweed root for dropsy and scrofula, rattlesnake plantain leaves for what else — rattlesnake bite.

She would know, too, what to do for "falling of the fundament" and she would be well acquainted with the preparation of tansy for ague fits, wormwood for jaundice, skunk on every school building appropriate. Their eye is on return. At a local cost of cents for every dollar voted are inclined to buy the best of everything offered for sale at the next town meeting. "The realists are more inclined to subtract, for an dollar voted, they prompt least thirty cents for interest on the $1.30 will go to the Andover tax rate. are as neighborly as is internationally reputed.

They said all this, and more... with conviction.

Considering the short duration of their stay, Andover did more than its bit to provide the tourists with grist for the conversation mill back home.

Their arrival, for example, could have been prompt and routine, but it will make a much better story just the way it happened. Left at the mercy of three bus drivers who normally drive New York to Boston to New Hampshire routes with never a departure from main arteries, they were lost in the confusion of a sewer project detour.

But it was fortuitous, for this led to a knock on the door at 103 Dascomb Rd. and Mrs. Arthur L. Wooten's immediate and hospitable offer to lead the caravan in. This gesture was worth a fortune in official welcomes, and the group has this too from town dignitaries who met them at the steps of Cochran Chapel, Phillips Academy.

(As a somewhat unbelievable footnote: the drivers missed connections again and lost their way enroute to Lawrence and the motel where half the group was housed overnight.)

Other conversation items: an unidentified sales woman in Andover promptly whisked her English customers home for afternoon tea, recalling that she had been well treated when in their homeland. And Richard Trull local florist, surprised one visitor with a winter bouquet after she introduced herself as a nears all mate the English version of needed would be telegraph association, at curiously

What Our Readers Say—

To the Editor of the Townsman: "The School Building Committee at its October 7 public meeting explained why a school building in Salem, N. H., would cost perhaps $300 more per pupil, or a total of $2000, if it conformed to the specifications of the proposed new Andover building. However, we should have more information on why the cost for us is estimated to be $4000, or 100% more per pupil in a 1200 pupil school and $3012 in an 1800 pupil building. That is too much.

"The proposed Article for town meeting seems to give the voter considerable leeway on the size of the school building. But the committee made it plain, with detailed support from its architect, that whatever the size and extra facilities, the choice given the voter is narrow: A building which accommodates 1800 pupils now; or a building which shall cost only 1.1% less but accommodate only 200 pupils now.

"Spokesmen said that there would be a saving to the town not to invest the remaining 12.5% more money now for the completed 1800 pupil facility because in 5 or 6 years all material and methods of the English version of the telegraph association, or the group spent its time in exploring the town and the Phillips' campus, the other 88% of the money it evening at the Junior High auditorium with the Mer which there is no immediate pipers and the Rocket Dance Club.

"For the record it should be noted that there is no Massachusetts law which prohibits the raising of a sum of money more than that which might be stated in the warrant for a town meeting. It has now been reported that we may have to build up to 7 more schools. Therefore it is hoped that did we ever get involved in a Revolutionary tea party? Whenever the School Committee desires a new Building the Office Selectmen shall direct their principal delegate, the town manager, to ascertain the cost of

Karl Haartz

To the Editor of the Townsman: "How well does the Andover citizen have in mind the straight and essential facts on the new proposed high school program for Andover? I obtained some straight-ward answers and sound reasoning at one of the open meetings held by the School Building and School Committees about two weeks ago. I congratulate the two committees for their devoted efforts to solve the critical high school program. I was impressed with the two and one half years study that went into this project resulting in a proposal which feel includes the minimum essentials for a sound and economical program for education of our youth.

"The basic question is where does the average citizen place the value of education in relation to other material luxuries in life? I recall the great sacrifices that my parents made in providing a better education program than was made available to them. They knew where the real values of life existed and were willing to make the investment. Are you obligated to pass on this heritage of real thinkers?

"The rigid college acceptance standards dictate a need for a high quality elementary and secondary education program. We will need adequate laboratory and teaching facilities to assist our capable students in meeting the keen college competition for admission as well as to round out their life as a high level citizen. This will also be a great benefit to the terminal student. Did you know that the average college student earns at least $100,000 more income during his working years than a man whose education stopped at high school? I am sure that you want your child or grandchild to have the best opportunity to be a college student. Under the population explosion, isn't it too risky to lower our high school standards at this time?

"The choice is now up to each citizen. I recommend that you obtain all of the facts, weigh them carefully, and then make a decision. I trust that it will be made from an unselfish heart. Remember you are making a decision on the future of your children, my children, and the neighbor's children. You should be at town meeting on Monday, October 19.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE PREDICTS TAX HIKE

Study Committee and existing master plans for specific areas of concern (i.e. water) as prepared by professional consultants.

The tax rate, says the CEC report, will increase at a steady pace from the present $33 to an estimated $43 in 1970, the town's budget sliding up from $4.9 to $8.1 million.

Expenditures Recommended

Using the experience of the past five years in prognosticating, the committee recommends the following:

A fire station to serve Ballardvale and West Andover.

Construction of one high school and two elementary schools for an estimated $4.5 million, a figure the committee already admits is low.

An extension to Memorial Hall Library in 1967.

Expenditure of $25,000 to refurbish town hall in 1966, apparently to forestall construction of a new municipal building.

The report terms as "too generous" consultant's recommendations for expenditure of $50,000 to $100,000 annually for drainage, suggests that $20,000 in 1965 and 1966 would be more appropriate with $50,000 for 1967 through 1970.

Approved is the present $20,000 being allocated annually for street surfacing and the yearly budgeting of $10,000 for sidewalks.

For sewer improvement the committee ok'd scheduling expenditure of $100,000 annually for the next 50 years; it suggested that outmoded facilities for public works equipment at the Town Yard be replaced with new buildings at another location.

The report also covers subject including an increased water supply (they veto the Merrimack River except as a last resort Rogers Brook (they suggest curbing costs on this project by leaving an open-brook stretch in the area of the school), new fire truck a sewage disposal plant etc.

Termed nice but not necessary are such proposals as picnic facilities, a bathhouse, wading pool and other items for Pomp's Pond a Central - Shawsheen playground a West Andover fire station, a tree department building, a book mobile.

Making the report, based on extended study, were Harry Anderson, Robert G. McAnern, Richard Moody, Frederick P. Worthen, School Supt. Edward I. Erickson and Town Manager Richard Bowen. Bowen replaced former Town Manager Thomas Duff on the special-project committee.

OFFICIALS UNDECIDED ON H.S. QUESTION

Members of the two groups seemed inclined to arrive at a figure that would be palatable to the taxpayer and work backwards, rather than accept estimates based on the educational specifications drawn by the School Committee.

The eleventh hour session was an effort to solidify official thinking on the school proposal, but was not immediately effective. Nor did it appear to eliminate any of the confusion stemming from the steady flow of opinions on the school from a variety of sources.

Chairman Allen did say, however, that the Selectmen will meet Thursday to draw an official conclusion. Holmes indicated that the Finance Committee will be prepared with a more definitive statement in time for Town Meeting Monday.

Raised at the lengthy meeting were the same questions that have plagued the Building Committee since its first statement on possible costs.

The most significant issues have brought the following supporting arguments from School Department administrators and the Hiccups, one of life's minor annoyances has been known on occasion to develop into long, wracking sieges of discomfort which defy relief. In general, a hundred people will offer up a hundred sure-fire cures, ranging from medically accepted relief measures to rather fanciful cures dredged up from ancient folklore.

Usually a simple measure such as holding the breath or rebreathing from a paper bag is sufficient to suppress hiccups. A new measure effective in stubborn cases which defy the more conventional cures is several rapid swallows of the juice of canned pineapple. We can't guarantee the effectiveness of this cure, but we can guarantee quick and efficient filling of all prescriptions at SHAW-SHEEN PHARMACY, Shawshen Square.

THIS WEEK'S HOUSEHOLD HINT: When sawing plywood, there is less likelihood of the wood splitting if you put a strip of cellophane tape at the point where you will first cut.

School Committee, jointly responsible for the educational specifications:

• 1. If the school is vetoed, when will we have to go to double sessions?

Supt. Edward I. Erickson reports that double sessions for the high school would probably come in 1966, definitely by 1967. He expects they can be stalled off for the junior high school until 1967, but not beyond.

• 2. Is an auditorium worth the cost in terms of its contribution to the educational program?

High School Principal Philip Wormwood says emphatically, "Yes." Reasons: permits student programs which teach audience communication skills; permits programs which serve as an extension of subject fields; permits development of attitudes of respect and loyalty through observation of traditional events; serves as an extension of the classroom, as in the showing of films on subject matter.

Permits school to host such events as Massachusetts Student Council Convention and Essex County Language Convention; permits use of guest lecturers and programs offered by major industrial firms; also valuable for career assemblies, orientation etc.

• 3. Are offices for department heads necessary, and if so, do they have to be as big as 24'x24'?

The role of the department head is steadily expanding, and the larger the school the more important his administrative functions become. The question of size is receiving further School Committee consideration.

• 4. Granting a need for department head offices, does each of the six called for in the plans have to be accompanied by a conference room?

ference room?

The consensus: Yes. The marked off for conferences is usually to be used most frequently as a small-group study area. Trend toward self-directed groups is evident; proximity of department head permits guidance and supervision.

• 5. Can the two sections of auditorium equipped with movable partitions be substituted for large group instruction room included in the specs?

No. The large group instruction room is to be equipped with a permanent demonstration fixed film projector and screen and other equipment which make it instantly available.

• 6. Are six rooms earmarked as study hall necessary?

Yes. They permit study under proper educational conditions, as designed will make it possible for one teacher to handle as many as 60 students. These rooms permit expansion space as school population increases toward the mark of 1,800 and need for still more high school space.

• 7. Does present student interest in shop courses indicate the need for a shop area of size allocated?

Yes. The new high school is designed with shop space comparable to that in the present school where the full capacity has not been used. With an enrollment of 1,200 that much shop will be demanded; in addition, the course study is being expanded to include such items as electronics which will appeal to a greater number of students.

SHOPPING CENTER VIEWED WITH ALARM

traffic, lights and drainage were all raised at a public hearing held by the Planning Board.

The rezoning issue is on the warrant for Monday's special Town Meeting. The change from residential to shopping center zoning is requested by Harry Arnold, Rolling Green owner.

The Planning Board will make its recommendation to the voters either in advance of or at Town Meeting.

RICHARDSON NAMES WORKED

Elliott Richardson, Republican nominee for Lt. Governor, announced appointment of two Andover residents as co-coordinators for his campaign.

Named are Mrs. E. Wells McLean and William Washburn.

Repairing Of The Driveway

After being down for a few years, asphalt driveways develop a common failure. Uneven density of the base, construction over filled ground, penetration of water, freezing and thawing and leaking gasoline can all play a part in the destruction of asphalt. Early repairs will eliminate costly repairs.

The first step in repair is the removal of all loose asphalt. Cut back to solid asphalt or blacktop with a chisel to a depth of at least 1 inch. Clean hole or crack thoroughly with a broom or brush. An excellent economical and permanent patching material is available at most lumber, building material and hardware stores. The product, a ready-to-use blacktop called Sakrete Blacktop is put into the hole or crack 1/2 inch above the surrounding surface, then packed down thoroughly even with the surrounding surface. Tools may be cleaned easily with kerosene.

Penny-wise Compromise?

If Andover backs away from a decision on how much and what kind of high school to build to accommodate a mushrooming secondary school population, what then?

The spectre of double sessions has fluttered in and out of school construction discussions frequently in past months. It hovers now, a vague fear, pushing some toward unreasoning acceptance of the new high school as proposed, and aggravating others who challenge the very practicality of doing anything but running the schools almost 'round the clock. Apparently a large segment of the voting public is still irresolute.

Building Chairman Robert McIntyre told the School Committee in a special fact-facing session Sunday morning that the fate of the long-planned high school may hinge on the public's having a clearer knowledge of exactly what will happen if the school is vetoed.

Exactly when, if conditions are left as they are, will Andover have to go to double sessions in its high school and junior high school? Exactly what would it cost the community annually to run a double-session program, and what is the differential between this figure and the hike in operational costs that would come with the move to a 1,200 student high school?

The public wants answers this specific, or solid estimates, and so far it hasn't been getting them.

School officials have said all along that double sessions are a certainty if space isn't created, and that they will move into coping with them sooner if no new building is in sight than if they know relief is just a year or two away. They are now pushed to deal in more than generalities.

Even an amateur, however, can do enough rough figuring to knock into a cocked hat the theory that double sessions are a money-saving panacea. Last year the high school operated with a staff of 44 teachers and administrators; the junior high school with 49. Both have added five or six teachers this year.

If you estimate, ultra conservatively, that both schools could run from about 7 a.m. until about 6 p.m. with considerably less than half as much faculty (by juggling schedules), you are still speaking of something approximating 20 new teachers, split between the staffs. Setting the average pay at a low $6,000, you are talking in terms of roughly $150,000 in increased salaries, or $1.50 on the tax rate annually.

Other plus items that must be counted in: the high cost of transporting a second shift (at about $26 per pupil per year), and a healthy boost in maintenance expenses.

More costly, in the judgment of our educators, is the effect that doubling up would have on school standards. It would be difficult to justify an economy that would weaken the town's educational program.

Crowded conditions at the high school have already forced curriculum compromises, elimination of developmental reading and study methods courses, for example. To work around further congestion administrators can eliminate classes that draw a limited number of students (such as Latin 4), teach some science courses without labs, move students into the auditorium for studying thereby curtailing the number of music instruction periods that can be held there.

Double sessions would eliminate some of these eventualities, but the plain fact is that you can't run the high school (or junior high school) program Andover now offers on a condensed schedule. Educators are convincing in their argument that both classroom and extra curricular programs would suffer.

If Andover ducks a solution to the school space problem Monday, it has been assured that compromises with quality (such as those already made) will eat away at the program with each increasing enrollment. If our educators are to be believed (and we must have faith in something at this point), setting up double sessions would simply formalize the compromises.

On this basis, it really doesn't matter whether Andover faces double sessions in 1966 or '68 or '70. The curriculum squeeze is already on and will intensify until adequate school housing is available. One more factor to weigh in the balance - - -

Parker represents the fifth generation of her family which has lived in Andover. Her great-grandfather was one of the pioneer settlers of the Scotland district. Fort Goldsmith on the east and west side of Reading is included in the territory he owns from Scotland schoolhouse to the Reading line and west to Woburn St.

Story Hours

The morning story hours for pre-school children, ages 3 to 5, begin next week at Memorial Hall in the children's room. Miss Elizabeth Russell will welcome the Littlest Listeners at 10 a.m. Tuesday to start the new season of story-telling. After the program each Listener will have an opportunity to select something to take home to read from the collection of new and older favorites for his age-group.

On Thursday the 1964-65 season of story hours for school age children will commence at 3:30 p.m. The story telling program is open to all boys and girls now in school and after the formal program they will be given whatever help they want in selecting reading to take home.

At Ballardvale

Mrs. Martha MacCausland starts the branch program for Littlest Listeners on Thursday at 3:30 p.m. Her stories will feature witches and goblins in a way to please her audience of 4 and 5 year old boys and girls. The group will meet every other week with a second program scheduled for November 5th.

Great Books

The Great Books discussion group which started a second ten-year cycle of meetings last year is now in its twelfth year at Memorial Hall. This makes it an honored institution. However, it is not necessary to have attended last year in order to be eligible to enjoy the program this year. On Thursday, October 20 the group will discuss Homer's Odyssey. If you would like to join or if you would like to order a set of the Great Books, please come to the library for more information.

Displays

It is significant that next week we observe two weeks of more than ordinary national importance - National Bible Week and United Nations Week. Interesting old Bibles and the long-awaited new English translation will be displayed in the lobby case at Memorial Hall. Only the New Testament has so far been published.

Scholars of Cambridge and Oxford Universities were at work for 13 years on this authoritative new translation. It was a formidable task. After Bible week, this and the other Bibles on display will be available for circulation. The library also owns a good collection on the Dead Sea scrolls and the Qumran Community.

During the week, one of the featured exhibits of books which may be taken out will be on the theme "The Bible: God's Word - Man's Hope - In Unity," an idea relevant to the many and heavy problems facing today's world. October 19 to 25 marks the twenty-fourth annual National Bible Week.

Concurrently the library will have a collection of informative and stimulating reading on the organization, the work around the world, and the problems and policies of the United Nations Organizations. In the Greater Lawrence area a booklet of U.N. titles to be found at any of the libraries will be available free. Because of the large demand for the joint list last year, an edition of 800 copies is scheduled for 1964.

For younger readers there are several new small books gaily illustrated with UNICEF Christmas cards which suit the story to perfection. For adults two of the new titles are: Cornelia Meigs' "The Great Design," and the "Visual History of the United Nations, Year by Year."

Hear! Hear!

Every friendly handshake between foreigners begets another, like the dropping of a stone into a still stream sends ripple after ripple.

Never original, attempts such as this to describe what happens when you put stranger and stranger together have become commonplace in an age dedicated to the expansion of international understanding.

It is reassuring, nevertheless, to be reminded of the truth that supports broad declarations of accepted principles. No better proof could be had than that offered Andover in its brief association last week with some 100 Englishmen, in the U.S. for a Centenary Tour sponsored by Southern Newspapers Ltd.

Delighted with their exposure to Andover and Andoverites, spokesmen for the group wondered out loud if our town couldn't put together a similar travel package and bring Andover, Mass. to Andover, England and nearby Southampton.

To this suggestion we say, Hear! Hear!

Down the Years with The Townsman

75 Years Ago - October, 1889

Shorter hours for the pupils of the public schools was the verdict reached by the school committee at its meeting Monday afternoon. It is designed to have five hours of study and two recesses of fifteen minutes each . . . most of the school sessions will be from 9 to 12 and 1:30 to 4.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Marland entertained upward of one hundred friends and neighbors last evening at their home. The best people of the place were present and many from out of town. Mr. and Mrs. Marland are known as good entertainers and their reputation was well maintained according to those who were present. Refreshments were served and with singing and games, the evening was pleasantly passed.

The rafters for the new school house (Ballardvale) are in place. The view from the top of the chimney is magnificent, as it is far above any natural or artificial elevation in the village.

Librarians At N.E. Meeting

Eight public and elementary school librarians are attending a four-day fall meeting of the New England Library Assoc. being held at Wentworth by the Sea Oct. 14-17.

Stressed today was information on children's books, a portion of the program devoted to a discussion of past and present publications for youngsters. Attending for this session were Miss Elizabeth Russell of the library and elementary school personnel including Mrs. Margaret Berry, Mrs. Alice Carlton, Mrs. Helen Hilton, Mrs. Barbara Quinlan and Mrs. Georgann Scott.

Librarian Miriam Putnam will be on hand Friday for sessions devoted to regional planning and the potential for library development under provisions of the Federal Library Services and Construction Act.

On Saturday a demonstration of cooperative book reviewing and the laying of plans for actual regional reviewing of books for young adults will be on the program. Assistant Librarian Mrs. Kenneth C. Vint will attend these and other sessions on that day.

The idea of regional reviewing is an outgrowth of the need to keep pace with the increased number of teens served by public libraries, according to Mrs. Vint. The plan is to spread the responsibility for being sure that every book placed in teen-age hands has real value, i.e. is factual, is authoritative etc. Some 80 percent of the books read by young people today are fiction and non-fiction books classified as adult reading matter.

Princeton Swamp Is Wildlife Sanctuary

Swamps and lowlands associate so closely that every time we encounter a swamp on a mountain-side we find it hard to believe. Yet, at Wachusett Meadows on a shoulder of Mt. Wachusett in Princeton, the Massachusetts Audubon Society presides over a swamp that oozes beneath one of the longest boardwalks in the commonwealth.

At the Wachusett Meadows Wildlife Sanctuary, this boardwalk which provides a platform for research into wetland problems, also supports a rather steady stream of pedestrians interested in exploring a swamp without collecting samples of mud. In all seasons, it furnishes a dryshod path through the swamp. At the present, with continued drought, it is an elevated walk through a moist woodland.

There, in this red maple swamp, one can see the nightshades past bloom and now in berry. The evergreen wood fern spreads its still verdant fronds. The pale yellow skeletons of royal ferns wave above a thick, dense rootstock that has gone dormant for the winter. A bittern, that ungainly bird that prefers a muddy world, pumps his mechanical call. Robins and migrating warblers flit among the maples.

Here and there, high-bush cranberries arch over the boardwalk. Blueberry bushes, blushing red, dot the underbush. The holly known as "black alder" - a holly that loses its leaves in autumn - now dangles round red berries.

From a platform that juts out over the creek that forms a channel in the swamp, one can watch three or four muskrats harvesting cattail roots against winter's bitterness.

After almost a mile of boards, one emerges from the swamp its sphagnum-based ecology on to an often-wet slope where the Lycopodiums abound. As one progresses up the slope, he encounters at one level an area where four of our common Lycopodiums flourish together. The Lycopodiums are clubmosses, ancient plants that botanists associate with fern and fern-allies.

The rule-of-thumb naturalist knows the Lycopodiums as "ground pine" or "princess pine", low-growing, intensely green plants that thrive on wet woodland floors. The four common Lycopodiums at the end of the Wachusett boardwalk are known to those who place small faith in handbooks as the ground pine, the ground cedar, the running pine and the shining clubmoss.

Wedding...CRAIG - YOUNG

Miss Gwendolen Jane Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard A. Young of 105 Salem St., was married in an afternoon ceremony at Christ Church Oct. 3 to John Fleming Craig, II, son of Mrs. John F. Craig, 10 Strawberry Hill Rd. and the late John F. Craig. Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a princess gown of white silk taffeta with a scoop neckline re-embroidered with Alencon lace which also trimmed the back of the skirt and cathedral train. Her head piece was a triple-tiered French illusion veil held in place by a silk beaded pill-box. She carried a cascade of white sweetheart roses.

Miss Joyce Eileen Young, a sister, was her maid of honor. She wore a pale blue gown of nylon organdy over pale blue satin with a cummerbund of deeper blue organdy. Her flowers were yellow and white carnations.

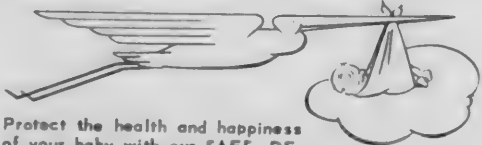

Miss Priscilla Carole Young, a junior bridesmaid and sister of the bride was dressed similarly as were the flower girls, Karen Gould and Laurie Gould; nieces of the bridegroom. Glen J. Borek of Utica, N. Y. was ring bearer.

Blind Permitted Voting Assistance

Blind voters in Massachusetts can request assistance in the marking of their ballots or the registering of their vote upon declaring on oath that they are unable to prepare their ballots or register their votes on a machine due to their blindness.

John F. Mungovan, Director of the Massachusetts Division of the Blind, in a statement this week, informs the blind voters of the Commonwealth that their privilege of having assistance in voting is provided in Chapter 54, Section 79 of the Massachusetts General Laws.

"Interested citizens would do well to clip out the following extract of the law, and take it with them to their polling places on voting day in order that poorly informed wardens or other officials will not object to blind persons exercising their right of franchise," Mungovan concluded.

Chapter 54, Section 79, as amended 1943, 411, (21), Assistance in Marking Ballot, a voter who declares on oath to the presiding officer that from blindness or other physical disability he is unable to prepare his ballot or register his vote upon a voting machine, shall be assisted in such marking or registering by any qualified voter whom he may designate.

Supreme Cleaners

Small boys, back in shoes again, are strange and formal in their new long pants. Little girls braided and shiny, starched and important, flounce off to school in their newly cleaned skirts, sweaters, and dresses. Teen-age Misses clean out their closets for the winter season and get ready for the ice and snow by having all their clothes cleaned at Supreme Cleaners.

You can make a big hit with your family and friends by discovering the superior work and pressing done at Shawsheen Plaza Shopping Center. There, they are experts in the cleaning field including shirts laundered to perfection, plus repair and alteration done to all the clothes.

Bring your clothes in soon and see for yourself the wonderful pressing job and laundering done to all the types of materials. From your finest to your bulkiest.

Automobile Buys

Spending for pleasure? Thinking about what to buy, where to go?

Planning for pleasure is always enjoyable, but if you are like most people, your deepest satisfaction comes from everyday living, and the wonderful trips you have in a car all your own.

In all the world, there is nothing like it. If just setting in a car doesn't do something for you, consider yourself over the hill, the exterior is incredibly rich, but the price is very economical. Style and flair won't make a car go faster, run any smoother, but it certainly does a lot for the man behind the wheel. There is a lot of satisfaction in owning a car that makes others take a second look

... it is a stand out. But, enough said about good looks; what about such items as performance, ride, handling, and all-around luxury?

We don't have cheaply made cars at Clark Motors, 273 South

Union Street, Lawrence — that's for other people. But we do have economical cars, one just right for you. Come and see for yourself we're open evenings.

Look Smart

Now, get the some cut and high fashion styling you always enjoy at

Marion Ferrante, 52 Main Street,

Andover. These new waves are fortified with creams and neutralizers to give your hair a beauty comeback from summer dryness and the body it needs for the new, soft, curly hairstyles.

Marion Ferrante's quick scissors shape your hair to the new smarter, shorter look. Have Miss Ferrante add a new luster and coloring to give your coiffure that extra sheen and manageability.

Tints that cover all the gray, highlights your natural color and makes even dull, dry hair look vibrant and healthy. She will add a special color to tone bleached hair, or to give your hair an ultra high fashion hue! Let Miss Ferrante show them to you.

So, start the Fall Season off with a new coiffure that has the "natural" look! Your hair will be cut and shaped so that the up-keep couldn't be easier. Call now for your appointment.

Project Hope Luncheon Topic

"Project Hope" will be the luncheon topic Tuesday for members of the Women's Auxiliary of the Essex North District Medical Society meeting at Merrimack Valley Motor Inn at 12:30 p.m.

The filmed lecture on work of the teaching and healing mission in Peru will be presented by Randolph P. Goetze, New England field director for the HOPE project.
The luncheon itself begins at 1:30 p.m. following a social hour.

Also on the society's winter program is a series of Pyramidal Bridge parties as fund raisers for scholarships to eligible high school graduates entering the nursing professions.

Among Andover women active with the organization are Mrs.
Joseph A. Paladino, Mrs. Robert Ramsdell, Mrs. George West and Mrs. Charles Currier.

LAFALOT CLUB MEETING

The Lafalot Club will meet Nov.
3 at the home of Mrs. Olive Carruthers, Lowell St.

Newly elected officers for the organization are: Mrs. Arthur Lewis, president; Mrs. William Jacques, vice president; Mrs. Ruth White, secretary; Mrs. Grace
Silva, treasurer.

RC Workers Recognized

Retiring chairmen, blood donors and volunteer workers were honored by the Red Cross at its annual meeting in South Church Oct. 7.

Certificates and corsages were presented by Rev. Frederick Noss to Mrs. Frank Crawford, retiring after 23 years, volunteer work, and Mrs. Leon Field, retiring after 25 years service.

Mrs. Crawford's most immediate post was that of canteen chairman and Mrs. Field has been motor service chairman.

Special awards were given to the following 2 gallon and 3 gallon blood donors by Mrs. Joseph d'Avi, Red Cross blood chairman: Mrs. Aubrey L. Mitchell, Mrs. Jane Sweet, Thomas R. Wallace, Richard H. Moody, Richard Mower, Mrs. Aileen A. McMillan, Peter O. McKee, Erwin H. Neal, Mrs. Ellen Jean Emmet, Miss Helen Loux, Leonard Frazer Colpitts, Mrs. Elaine Batcheller, David L. Nicoll.

Gerald Silverman, Albert T. Warner, Joseph F. Barton, Ernest J. Clegg, James R. Adriance, Mrs. June Anderson, Mrs. Alice H. Dumont, Thomas Emmons, Donald G. Thompson, Arthur Glines, Paul Goldman, Owen Hinckley, Elmer Peterson, Mrs. Geraldine Piercy, Charles W. Smith, George A. Holdsworth, and Mrs. June G. Harris.

The Red Cross volunteers awarded certificates and pins were: Mrs. Percy Beasley, Mrs. George L. Brightman, Mrs. William J. Buehner, Franklin Buchanan, Mrs. Joseph Byrne, Mrs. Gordon Cannon, Mrs. Albert Cole, Jr., Mrs. J. Everett Collins, David Cutler, Mrs. Agnes Deyermund, Miss Agnes Dugan, Donald Dunn, Mrs. Frederick Eastman, Mrs. John W. Hall, Jr., Miss Ruth Hayes, Miss Madeline Hewes, Kenneth Hilton, Jr.

Mrs. Wilson Knipe, Jr., Mrs. Carl Krumpe, Mrs. Leonard F.

Lawrence, Stanley Leadbitter, Miss Helen Loux, Mrs. George Luedke, Mrs. John Lux, Mrs. Charles McKenzie, Mrs. P. W. Moody, Edward Murphy, Rev. Frederick B. Noss, William N. Perry, Mrs. Theodore Peterson, Mrs. Frank Purdon, Mrs. A. L. Rairigh, William F. Tammany, Mrs. Kenneth Thompson, Robert Walsh, Reagh Wetmore, Miss Ruth Whitehill, Mrs. Robert Urquhart.

William Perry, newly elected chairman of the Andover chapter, introduced Miss Jane Wriston, RC field representative, who spoke of her experiences with the Red Cross in Korea, Turkey, France and other countries. Refreshments were served by the canteen under the direction of the new chairman, Mrs. Kenneth Fitzgerald.

Taxpayers OK High School

The Andover Taxpayers Assoc. has announced that it will back the School Building committee in its plan to construct a 1,200 student high school with core facilities for 1,800.

The organization has turned thumbs down on the recommended 1,000 seat auditorium and a swimming pool, however.

After some months of sitting in on various committee meetings and collecting its own figures, the Taxpayers came up with a simple, five-point statement.

In total, it reads:

"1. We recognize the immediate need for expanded high school facilities.

2. We approve the recommendations of the school building committee to construct a new high school for 1,200 student capacity, with core facilities to allow for expansion to 1,800.

3. We recommend substantial reduction in the cost by the elimination of unnecessary facilities in the present specifications.

4. We recommend disapproval of the proposed auditorium in the absence of substantial evidence of its need.

5. We disapprove inclusion of a swimming pool in the new high school since this is a "nice to have" item, compared to the many more necessary capital expenditures now facing the town."

The statement was signed by Charles F. Richmond, secretary.

ABBOT MAGIC SHOW

Paul Fleming, magician, will appear at Abbot Academy at 8 p.m. Saturday to present a program including slight-of-hand, "spiritualistic manifestation" and illusionist feats of magic.

Dr. Fleming's interest in magic dates to his boyhood, but he has had a full and reportedly scholarly career as an economist and university professor. As a magician, he has entertained at the White House.

The program, billed as "appealing to ladies and gentlemen of all ages - 8 to 80", is open to the public.
